The Hiram Percy Maxim Memorial Station

W1AW is the primary operating station of ARRL, the national association for Amateur Radio, located in Newington, Connecticut. W1AW's mission includes the transmission of digital, voice and Morse code bulletins and Morse code practice sessions, which are received by radio amateurs around the globe. Visiting ham radio operators can get on the air from the station's studios to make radio contacts — even by amateur satellite. The station is housed in a quaint brick building, flanked by a multitude of antennas and towers. W1AW is dedicated to the memory of ARRL's founder, Hiram Percy Maxim (1869-1936). When visiting ARRL headquarters, W1AW is the first place members and guests want to see.
